WATER BOND ELECTION

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED INCLUDE MAINS, RESERVOIR, ELECTRIC GENERATOR

About sixty election officers will be required when Glendale votes on bonds for the extension and improvement of the water system June 17th. City precincts have been consolidated into ten with six officers to each. The list of officers selected will be published next week.

One of the items in the budget of improvements is an electric generator plant. It also provides for water mains in many sections of the city which are not now served and for a reservoir at a higher level which will afford greater pressure and greater volume of water and therefore better fire protection. This is one of the main objects of the water improvements.

The budget also makes provision for funds to develop the water supply in Verdugo Canyon in such a manner as to better protect the purity of the water, with a possibility of increasing the flow.

The grass fires of the past few days have made Glendale people think about these things, especially when they happen in districts where there are no mains and where they must be fought with brooms and shovels or with chemicals.

At the meeting of the Greater Glendale Development Association this evening Mr. Lynch will outline the proposed additions to the trunk line and tell of the development work in the canyon and the reservoir planned.

G. G. DEVELOPMENT MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Greater Glendale Development Association will be held this evening in the auditorium of the Intermediate School on Kenwood and Wilson Avenues where a general discussion of the telephone situation will be entered into by officers and members.

The matter of a bond issue for water improvements will also be discussed by Mr. Lynch of the Water Department.

It is expected that the association will vote to recommend to the city trustees that they call an election to vote bonds to install a municipal telephone system in view of the fact that a decision has been handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States which allows the telephone company to collect the rates as passed on by Postmaster General Burleson.

A. A. BAIRD IN GLENDALE TO STAY

A. A. Baird has returned from the East, having closed out his interests in the chain of 31 five and ten-cent stores with which he was connected for several years, and will now devote his time exclusively to the Glendale Pharmacy which he and Clyde Morrison purchased a few months ago. He will make his home for a few days with his brother-in-law, Dr. T. C. Young, until he can secure a place to live. His wife is visiting in Oakland while he gets things ready here.

AT SANTA CRUZ

STATE CONVENTION CONGRESS OF MOTHERS AND PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS

The Twentieth Annual Convention at Santa Cruz was a wonderful success from both a business and pleasure standpoint. Nearly two hundred accredited delegates were in attendance from all parts of the state and a great many visiting members from the associations in and near Santa Cruz.

The sessions opened Tuesday afternoon in the big Casino at Casa del Rey Hotel, with Dr. Jessie Russell, State President, in the chair.

After greetings from the Superintendent of City Schools of Santa Cruz, president of Santa Cruz Federation and the president of the Sixth District with response from the southern part of the state by president of the Fourth District, the reports of the state officers were given.

In the late afternoon tea and cake were served by the members of Santa Clara County.

The decorations of the Convention Hall were beautiful in their simplicity. Branches of the glorious redwoods were used profusely with yellow broom and wild iris giving the touch of the convention colors—yellow and white. Tables of fresh flowers each morning supplied everyone with bouquets for the day and all we wished for our rooms.

CITY TAXES

OFFICIALS WORKING ON BUDGET AND HOPE TO REDUCE RATE DESPITE H. C. L.

Statistics gathered from the books of the tax collector show that with a total tax roll of $90,576, only $4,948 are delinquent and of this amount $3,757 are chronic cases which have been delinquent for the past three years on property which may be forfeited to the city if the payments are not made good within the next two years. The new delinquent list is $1,191, which will probably be largely reduced. The city budget is now being worked out from estimates submitted by the various department heads.

The city is larger than it was a year ago by reason of the territory annexed within the past year, and it has a tax valuation of eight millions of dollars.

The biggest item of expense in the districts annexed will be the establishing of grades, making profiles and center lines on new streets, and then establishing by ordinance the official grades, which has to be done before any improvements can be made. There will be more than one hundred new street lights required in the new territory. The street cleaning and street repair will also be quite an item in these districts.

SERGEANT COOKMAN ORGANIZES BOYS' CLUB

Sergeant Alfred Cookman, who recently returned from war work in a hospital at West Baden, Ind., is putting into practical application much of what he learned while in the service of his country. He has organized the boys of the West Glendale Methodist Sunday School and church into a club which he calls the West Point Club. It includes boys of all ages, hence cannot be classed with the Boy Scouts, and Sergeant Cookman is giving them simple military exercises and athletics that will build up their bodies. At the same time he instills moral principles, thus building up mind as well as body and making true American citizens of them. Last Saturday he took the boys for an all-day hike up in the Verdugo mountains and he contemplates a similar trip up Mt. Wilson ere long. Sergeant Cookman is to be commended for his efforts to hold the boys in line for Christian training of mind and body.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Parker, of 101 North Central Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Lee Duncan, to Sidney W. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brown, of La Crescenta. The wedding will be in the near future.

JOBS WANTED

Two or three returned soldiers have registered with the Municipal Employment Bureau at the City Holl for jobs driving autos or trucks. Two of the men were wounded and one of them is an electrical expert. Any Glendale employer who could use one or more of these men should take notice.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

This afternoon (Tuesday) there will be a baseball game between the A8 and the teachers of the Intermediate School. An admission fee of 5c will be charged and the receipts will go to a fund which the class is accumulating to buy a gift to leave with the school when it graduates.

Mr. Harwood, principal of the Cerritos Avenue School, reports that the school made an excellent record in the drive for French War Orphans, and raised a fund of at least $155 which may be increased to $160.

Pupils of Cerritos School are looking forward to the visit of Dr. Edwards, head of the nature study department in Los Angeles Schools who will be in Glendale Wednesday afternoon to speak at 2 o'clock before the assembled students of the upper grades and the members of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Miss Helene Morgan, the talented young pianist and teacher, will play the Nocturne for the Left Hand, by Scriabine, and two Etudes by Bortkiewitz, at the Community Sing benefit next Saturday night.

Miss Morgan recently gave a very successful concert at the Ebell Club in Los Angeles.

She holds a worthy place in the ranks of the young musicians who are rapidly advancing in their chosen profession.

ECONOMIC EXPERTS ADVISE WILSON

SUGGEST GIVING GERMANY MANDATORY RIGHTS OVER HER FORMER EAST AFRICAN COLONIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Paris, June 3.—American economy experts conferred with President Wilson this morning, advocating that Germany be given mandatory rights over German East Africa to assist her in meeting her financial obligations. Lloyd George's suggestion that Germany be given back Upper Silesia, for economic reasons, opened the question. The Americans want Poland to retain Silesia and Germany to be given the supervision of some of her former colonies instead.

The entire question of reparation was also discussed this morning. The President instructed the American experts to confer with French and British experts and then draw final proposals for submission to the "Big Four."

It is authoritatively learned that the Allies intend to ask Germany whether she intends to sign the treaty before replying to her counter proposals. If Germany replies that she intends to sign and accept the principles in the present treaty, then modifications may be made. If the answer is negative, the modifications may be considered useless.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHTS

LIEUTENANT-COMMANDER READ SAYS THEY ARE NOT YET PRACTICABLE COMMERCIALLY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

London, June 3.—Lieutenant-Commander Read of the NC-4, in an interview today, declared:

"Our flight convinced me that regular commercial trans-Atlantic flying is not yet practicable." He said the science of aviation is not yet perfected to a point where aviators can cross with certainty. He also stated he would submit to the navy department his detailed report.

LOS ANGELES CHIEF OF POLICE GIVES ORDERS FOLLOWING OUTRAGES AND I. W. W. POSTERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Los Angeles, June 3.—Following last night's bomb outrages and the appearance of Industrial Workers of the World posters in oil fields near Los Angeles, the chief of police ordered a round-up of all suspicious characters.

SECRET SERVICE AGENTS FOLLOW CLEWS

BOMB INTENDED TO WRECK HOME OF ATTORNEY GENERAL PALMER POINTS TO HOLT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, June 3.—The government's ablest secret service agents are following clews to many cities as a result of last night's bomb outrages, particularly the explosion which wrecked the home of Attorney General Palmer. Officials said the investigations indicated that the plot originated either in Philadelphia or Paterson. They said the bomb at Palmer's house, which killed the man who placed it, was identical with the one Frank Holt used in an attempt to destroy the Capitol in 1915. It is believed that last night's explosion is the work of the same gang which hired Holt. They said the Palmer bomb evidently exploded when the man who was carrying it fell over a ledge in the yard before he placed it. The man's thumb was found in the yard at the Palmer home, and finger prints, which were immediately taken, were rushed to the police in leading cities of the country.

An anarchist poster found near Palmer's home challenged "the powers that be" to a "class war," and declared the war would not end until the "powers" were destroyed. It said:

"There will have to be bloodshed; we will not dodge it. There will have to be murder; we will kill because it is necessary. There will have to be destruction; we will destroy to rid the world of your tyrannical institutions."

GOVERNOR STEPHENS MAKES APPOINTMENTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

San Francisco, June 3.—Governor Stephens appointed the following members of the Board of Regents of the University of California: Mrs. Margaret Sartori, Los Angeles; George I. Cochran, Los Angeles. Cochran succeeds the late Phoebe Hearst. The Governor has appointed John McFarland attorney of the State Board of Health. McFarland resigned his position as the Governor's secretary June 1.

TOMMIES SEEK STAGE

(By United Press)

London (By Mail.)—In the efforts they put forth to cheer each other up "over there," a great many of the British Tommies discovered themselves. Many of them, who had never appeared on a public platform before, when asked to sing, dance, etc., for the entertainment of their comrades, found that they had real talent, and came to be regarded in the camp as "stars."

Now that they are demobilized they are making a rush for the footlights, and stage managers are receiving them with open arms. London audiences are tired of the women casts.

STATE BOND ELECTION

City Clerk Sherer calls attention to the fact that a State Bond Election will be held July 1st, when citizens of Glendale will vote in 22 precincts on a bond issue of $40,000,000 to complete state highways already started and open up others which have been merely projected. He states that some of these roads are really needed as outlets for farming districts of the state, but others are merely scenic routes for the pleasure of touring automobilists.

MANY FIRES YESTERDAY

Glendale was not alone in suffering from grass fires yesterday. There were 52 alarms turned in to the Los Angeles Fire Department, though none proved serious in the way of property loss. One fire lieutenant was probably fatally burned, as was also a little girl. Flames swept up the slopes of Mt. Washington and there was also a big blaze just beyond Eagle Rock. Both these were plainly to be seen from Glendale. Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, so far, the mercury registering 95 degrees above. There is very grave danger of fires in Glendale as long as the very hot weather continues as many vacant lots are covered with a rank growth of weeds or wild oats. No attempts to burn off lots should be made when any breeze is stirring.

WEATHER FORECAST — Fair. Continued warm weather.

DEATH OF MRS. ROPER

MOTHER OF MRS. J. F. McINTYRE PASSES AWAY IN HER EIGHTY-SIXTH YEAR

Emeline Tyler Roper, wife of John A. Roper, and mother of Mrs. James F. McIntyre, of 135 North Cedar St., passed away at the home of Mrs. McIntyre, where she had made her home for the past nine years, shortly before one o'clock Tuesday morning, June 3, 1919.

Mrs. Roper was born at Winfield, Herkimer county, N. Y., July 18, 1833, hence was nearly 86 years old at the time of her death. She moved to Wisconsin with her father's family in 1846 when she was twelve years old and settled on a farm near Juneau. She was married to John Augustus Roper on April 17, 1853. They lived on a farm between Juneau and Horicon, Wisconsin, for 37 years moving to Horicon in 1890. In June, 1907, Mr. and Mrs. Roper moved to Spokane, Wash., and three years later came to Glendale where they lived ever since.

Besides her husband she is survived by four children M. G. Roper of Tacoma, Wash., and John A. Roper of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. McIntyre of Glendale and Mrs. James Dismukes of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Roper have been a remarkable couple. Both lived to a happy old age. Or April 17th of this year they celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Roper, who survives his wife, is famed far and wide as one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the country, having been a member of that order for sixty-six years.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Pulliam Undertaking Company's chapel. Interment will be in the family lot in Grand View cemetery.

ADVENTIST CHURCH NOTES

Secretary Frank Coffin of the Pacific Union Conference has gone to Visalia to attend the second of the series of eight camp meetings, which will be held in western territory this summer. Elder Christian is also there. They will be back about the 9th. The next one will be held in Arizona on the 22d. The eighth of the series, from August 18th to 31st, will be held in Los Angeles.

R. A. Underwood, president of the Central Union Conference, visited the office of the Pacific Union Monday and will spend two or three days in this part of the country.

COMPLETES UNDERTAKING EQUIPMENT

The C. O. Pulliam Undertaking Co. has just put into commission a "first call wagon," as it is termed, though it is an auto. It is gray in color, like the hearse and ambulance, though a little darker shade, and it was designed by Mr. Pulliam, assisted by officers of the Auto Sheet Metal Works of Los Angeles, by which it was constructed. The body is wood and heavy auto sheet metal, principally the latter, and is complete with hood. It will be used also in long trips where bodies are brought from a distance to Glendale for interment.

MEET IN HILO

LIEUT. KENNETH M. BARAGER FINDS A BRIDE IN MISS IVY LITTLE OF OAKLAND

The many friends of Lieut. Kenneth Myles Barager, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barager, of this city, will learn with interest of his marriage Saturday, May 24th, to Miss Ivy Hooper Little, of Piedmont, a fashionable section of Oakland, Cal., at the home of the bride's aunt in the presence of about fifty witnesses.

These young people met while the lieutenant was teaching in Hilo, Hawaiian Islands. She was visiting friends there and attending high school from which she was graduated a year ago. She then returned to her home while he enlisted and was sent overseas.

She is the grand-daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. William Little, who were pioneers in Oakland, and assisted in the establishment of the College of California, which preceded the State University.

The Lieutenant and Mrs. Barager are coming south for a wedding trip and his friends here will have an opportunity to meet his bride. They expect to make their home in Piedmont.

A. P. Ransone of Dryden Street is in receipt of a message from Cleburne, Texas, announcing the death of his father, John R. Ransone, of that city. He has been in ill health for a long time and his demise was not unexpected.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 1919

LOCAL TELEPHONE SITUATION

Citizens of Glendale who have been keeping themselves posted on local telephone conditions are well aware that Glendale is working to a disadvantage on account of the action of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company. Until less than a year ago there were two telephone companies giving service in Glendale, and while there was a disadvantage in having two phones in order to reach all of the people of the city, yet there was an advantage in being able to get free connections with telephone subscribers in adjacent communities. Now, since the merger of the two systems has taken place and the business is wholly in the hands of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, an order was issued, which went into effect May 1 of the present year, requiring subscribers to pay a ten-cent toll to Los Angeles, and at the same time there was an order issued increasing the exchange rates from 25 to 30 per cent.

The order as mentioned above was given under the authority of Postmaster General Burleson and for a time it was contended that Burleson had no right to fix rates for the utilities of the various states, but in a ruling issued from the United States courts yesterday the Postmaster General has been empowered with the right to fix rates and now it would seem that unless the telephone company asks to have an exception made of Glendale and that free service be given between this city and Los Angeles (which they will likely not do) Glendale subscribers are placed in a very embarrassing position. The exchange rate is so high that those in medium and poor financial circumstances are unable to retain their phones and this being the case it will make a very small exchange in the Glendale community.

The time has come when a telephone is a necessity and not only the rich who are able to pay the high exchange rates and excessive toll charges should have the benefit of the telephone but also the mechanic, the day laborer and the woman who takes in washing for a living should have the advantage of a telephone in the home. The only way that people in medium and poor circumstances can be given this advantage is for the city to own and operate the telephone system without profit. The stockholders and officers of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company are not in business to give accommodations and fair play to telephone users but they are in business to get the very most out of it they can. Past experiences has taught them that fewer phones at high exchange rates and the existence of toll stations is what brings them the greatest amount of money on their investment. From this date on, if it is the desire of the citizens of Glendale to be beneath the iron heel of the telephone company, all that is necessary for them to do is to accede to the orders given for increased exchange and excessive toll rates May 1, and they will get the tyrannical effects of the iron heel to their hearts' content. On the other hand, if they wish to free themselves from this iron heel torture, the only way to do it is to unite and aid in the installation of a municipal telephone system, a system that, without being run for profit, will give every citizen the privilege of having a telephone at a reasonable exchange rate. Now is the time to decide. Attend the Greater Glendale Development Association meeting this evening in the auditorium of the Intermediate School, corner of Wilson Avenue and Kenwood Street, and unite with others there as to the best plan to pursue.

A GOOD ROADS RETROSPECT

The Mississippi River, 4,300 miles long, was, in its time, the greatest waterway highway for freight and passenger traffic in the United States; in the world, too, for that matter. It carried to the Gulf of Mexico merchandise and travelers along its own course, and also from 54 other tributary rivers navigable by steamboats, and from hundreds of smaller streams which were used by flat-boats and keel-boats. From one of the rivers entering the Mississippi, the Illinois River, Abraham Lincoln, in his youth, made an historic trip to New Orleans on a flat-boat. The Mississippi was a momentous object lesson as to the value of a trunk line, in the matter of transportation. Into its main current these other subsidiary currents flowed, and in addition to the vast bulk of business handled along the Mississippi itself, there was a tremendous accumulation of traffic floated into it by its auxiliary feeders.

The railroads and the tug-boats killed the Mississippi as a freight handler, but the lesson of its usefulness is living today. It showed the road-builders of the country what "trunk line" highways, whether of water or of roadway, will do in the way of developing a country.

The old Oregon Trail and the Santa Fe Trail are instances of the vital part played by pioneer highways in the settlement and exploitation of the far west. Into these roads hundreds of rude trails pierced, and even the waterways of the country were used in reaching them. Their history is a thrilling chapter in the archives of America; their example was a potent and a far-reaching one.

In the early '60's the United States built a turnpike road, which bisected a part of the State of Ohio in its meanderings. This "pike" extended through a very rich farming country, fairly well settled up, but very poorly provided with good roads. The locally maintained highways were constructed and kept up by the farmers themselves, and by the precarious method of volunteer road-makers. For a considerable portion of the year they were comparatively mere excuses for roads. Many an old-time settler, according to legend, after flogging his nearly exhausted team over the few miles between him and the government highway, was heard to exclaim, as his wagon crawled up on the firm and dry surface of the United States trunk-line causeway: "Thank God, we've hit the pike!"

Along this turnpike were occasional toll-gates, where a heavy beam was dropped across the road as a wagon approached, and the traveler was halted until he had deposited a couple of pennies for "toll." But even with this small tax, the "pike" was a godsend. And from time to time the farmers near it, educated by its example, improved and built up the roads leading from their places to the "pike." And, encouraged by this, still other farmers, more distant, exerted themselves to reach the firmer roads constructed by the nearby farmers, by building more permanently and of better materials their own roads. And gradually, but nevertheless surely, the roads in the vicinity of the government turnpike had become immeasurably improved.

The annals of good road building established the fact that the installing of through trunk line roads from one fixed point to another is the first necessary step. Then comes the building of "feeder" roads, to branch out and take in the adjoining territory and its communities. Nothing is so intimately connected with the advancement of agriculture in all its branches, grain-growing, stock-raising, horticulture, dairying, vegetable raising, the raising of nut crops, apiculture, etc., as good roads.. In the last analysis, no one industry means so much for the prosperity of a state as farming. Manufacturing, mining—including prospecting—merchandising, all lines of business, in fact, lean heavily on agriculture, in its many branches, for the source of their main support.

California, and particularly Southern California, is peculiarly blessed in relation to sterling advantages in the building of good roads. Men who have lived in the Eastern, far Northern or Middle-West States know well how the long hot summers, the bitter and and extended winter weather, and the alternate freezing and thawing of early spring wreak havoc with the highways in those localities. California's climate is her first great asset in road building. It enables roads to be built at any season of the year, or repaired, and it does not subject these roads at any season to the fierce extremes of weather common to the other States in the East, Middle-West and Northern tier of States, excepting, of course, Oregon and Washington. Its second essential advantage is the possession of ample road-building material close at hand. Without going into detail or quoting statistics to weary readers, it can be confidently asserted that the State, and notably the southern part of the State of California, presents ideal conditions for road building.

The benefits accruing from a State Highway trunk line system reaching out and tapping the outlying districts and communities by means of auxiliary "feeder" branches, would fill a volume to catalogue. It would be difficult, indeed, to name any line of business or industry, whether in city, town or country, which would not inevitably reap a direct pecuniary benefit from such a system. With these advantages to be gained, and with a nominal cost to the individual, spread over a long term of years, and more than regained by the saving resulting, it is not to be wondered that California is taking her place as a great road-building State.

The history of road construction in Southern California will read, in days to come, like a romance. Millions of visitors have already passed over its superb highways, and millions more will travel them in the years ahead. Their beauty is matched and supplemented by their utility. They combine what at first might seem as unblendable as oil and water, the two extremes of luxury and necessity. The ponderous trucks of commerce, the richly appointed limousines of the well-to-do residents, the touring cars of the visitors, the motorcycles of the individual travelers—all intermediate types and weights of the wide world of motordom pass and repass on these winding ribbons of lawn-like smoothness, stretching from all points, and interlocking and contributing one to the other. Every highway is mapped and sign-boarded with the strict care and accuracy by the Automobile Club of Southern California, the greatest institution of its kind in the world, and in every county its branches are open to give aid and assistance to the traveling public.

The history of the Mississippi River is now purely legendary. Its fleets of palatial steamers are a thing of the past. Its levees are stripped of freight and its glory, like that of Ichabod, has departed. The story of the Oregon and the Santa Fe Trails belongs to the pioneer days and the Homeric tales of Lewis and Clarke and of Kit Carson. The railroads have built along the dust which once covered their paths, and herds of cattle browse on the plains where the bison once thundered down to drink of the waters of the prairie rivers. And across those wide expanses of once virgin prairie the automobiles now flash, reaching from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate, from Far Rockaway to the City of the Angels, rimmed in by its setting of everlasting hills.

But supplementing and auxiliary to the railways of California, growing each year in commercial importance and aiding the upward trend of modern-day business and pleasure, the genius of good roads comes marching by with irrisistible tread, gathering strength with every stride, the embodiment of progress and prosperity.

CLOSER RELATION BETWEEN LABOR AND CAPITAL

The idea that there must be established a closer relation between capital and labor, that those interests must come to be a common interest, if each is to prosper in proportion to what it contributes to industry, is not only receiving the consideration of thoughtful employers and thoughtful leaders of the labor movement, but it finds a large place in the latest message of the President of the United States. He says truly, and with a clarity of expression that is peculiarly his:

"We must recognize that the old road can no longer be traveled, that a new one must be sought; that old methods of dealing between employer and employe are obsolete and must be replaced by new ones founded on the principle of the democratization of labor and capital and the idea that they are partners, each working for their own and other's interest. * * * We are not concerned with the question of efficient industrial production—this evidently being taken for granted under a partnership arrangement—but the much greater and more vital question, how are the men and women who do the labor of the world to obtain progressive improvement; how are they to be given the right advantages as citizens and human beings? We cannot go any farther in our present direction. We have already gone too far. We cannot live our right life as a nation or achieve the proper success as an industrial community if capital and labor are to continue to be antagonistic instead of being partners."

Just how much legislation can contribute to solve what the President points to as a recognized problem remains to be seen. But there must be a remedy, and probably it lies in men themselves, to be applied by them when they see the light. And the arrival of the day when they will see it is hastened by every such expression as that of President Wilson.—Bakersfield Californian.

The nation-wide bomb plot which culminated yesterday in explosions in many cities and attempts to kill prominent men, among them Attorney General Palmer and Mayor Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, is giving considerable concern to federal officials. In the Washington City explosion a man was blown to pieces, supposedly the one who held the bomb. Coming so soon after the attempt through the mails on the lives of a score or more prominent citizens, it points unmistakably, think the federal authorities, to an anarchist uprising along Bolshevik lines. A determined effort is being made to run down the perpetrators and instigators of the crime.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dare Myers, of Santa Monica, are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Huntley, of 201 N. Central Avenue.

Miss Sadie Newhouse, of Covina, spent the week-end with her friend, Miss Gladys Sharpe, of 411 North Central Avenue.

Wesley Bullis, of South Central Avenue, is very much better and improving quite rapidly. His friends hope he will soon be well enough to ride out in the auto.

The official dog catcher is winding up his campaign against the canine citizenry of Glendale and his census shows about 600 that are properly recorded and a few more to get.

Dr. Jason Morse returned from Michigan last Thursday and is now established with his sister, Mrs. C. A. Barker, on South Glendale Avenue, who is delighted to again have his companionship.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Robinson, of 212 West Colorado Street, go East next week via the Canadian Pacific and stopping to visit friends in Seattle, en route. They will also visit in Minnesota and Missouri.

Next week is Boy Scout Week and anyone who wishes to take an associate membership will be given an opportunity to do so, through any member of the Scout Council or the Scout Executive. Mr. McAdoo is directing the national drive.

Tropico Troop 1 of the Boy Scouts, under L. T. Rowley, have made all their preparations for a bonfire on the top of Tropico Hill as soon as the peace treaty is signed. They invite the public and any of the boys of other troops to join with them.

The Memorial and Recognition of Service Certificates, which the city officials are presenting to the men who entered the army and navy from Glendale and served during the great war, are greatly appreciated by the men who have received them. There are still some of these certificates at the City Hall awaiting the men entitled to them.

Dr. Galen Gould, dentist, who went across with the 83d Field Artillery, is back to the United States, according to a telegram received yesterday at the home of his parents, I. E. Gould and wife, of 311 South Central Avenue. Dr. Gould landed May 28th and was sent to Camp Dix for discharge. He is expected home in a few days.

The J. O. C. class of the First Methodist Sunday School was entertained Monday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Lusby, at 125 North Louise Street. A business session was followed by a social good time, and refreshments were served, Mrs. Lusby being assisted by Mesdames Arthur Haines and J. H. Lord. About twenty were present. It is a flourishing class of which Mrs. C. D. Shattuck is the teacher.

Carlton West, of 1138 San Rafael Avenue, who has been absent from Glendale about a year, arrived home Sunday and is delighted to be here again. He was but eighteen years of age when he enlisted in the army and was sent to a military training school at Fort Monroe. After securing his discharge he at once returned to Berkeley and was able to finish his year's work in the university in spite of the interruption.

Prof. and Mrs. M. E. Cady, of Berkeley, are here visiting and sightseeing with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith. The two ladies are sisters and E. L. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Smith, of 410 E. Broadway. The whole party will spend the week-end in San Diego and the E. L. Smiths and Cadys will then visit the Yosemite, after which the Smiths will go home to Michigan by the northern route.

News from Miss Susine Wessels and Miss Olds, who have been visiting in Good Thunder, Minn., indicates they have had a very pleasant sojourn there and that the people of that little city will part with them reluctantly, as Miss Wessels has given them two concerts which they greatly appreciated. It is reported that a boat for South Africa will sail from New York the 15th of June and it is expected they will be passengers on it.

The city is now collecting the assessment for the opening and widening of Eighth Street from Glendale Avenue to Verdugo Road. It is a narrow street which had never been improved. June 5th will be the last day to pay and after that date assessments will be delinquent and the property assessed will be sold. Only a portion of the street has been opened heretofore. This improvement will complete the opening as far as Adams Street.

Miss Vivian Engle, who has been teaching at Neenack, has completed her year's work there and returned to Glendale where the Engle family is rejoicing in a reunion of all its members, Carl Engle having returned with other members of the 316th Ammunition Train a few weeks ago. His service in the army as waggoner and mechanic has inclined him to that kind of work and he is looking for a job of that nature. He is pronounced a good mechanic and should be of value to any employer wanting service of that kind.

J. C. SHERER, Trustee,

Dr. C. L. Marlenee and wife were week-end guests at Forrest Home, near Redlands.

Mrs. Tom Harrison of West Park Avenue has returned from quite a lengthy stay in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cross and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Henry enjoyed an outing in Arroyo Seco on Sunday.

Comrade Robert Taylor, who was marshal of the first section of the parade on Decoration Day, has been under the weather this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clark entertained at dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. H. Carnahan of Riverside. Mr. Carnahan is Mr. Clark's law partner.

Mrs. John P. Hilbert, who formerly resided in this city on Vine Street, is visiting in Glendale and will be the guest of Mrs. Minette Sherman Wednesday. Her children, Nelle and Jack, are with her.

Mrs. John Garver, formerly Miss Irene Reed, of this city, and Mr. Garver, who have been living in Denver, arrived Thursday and are the guests of their relatives at 701 North Central Avenue. They expect to locate here.

Mrs. Catherine Bell, of Vine Street, has returned from a visit to her daughter in El Monte. Her son, Orval Bell, and his bride, are now here with her. Mrs. Orval finds California quite different from her Eastern home, but likes it very much.

Mrs. R. K. Hilton, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Louise Purnell, of 337 Riverdale Drive, since February 3d, left Monday for her home in Springfield, Illinois. She is very much in love with California and hopes to return in the near future.

E. B. Moore, of South Maryland Avenue, who is quite a prominent official in the Order of Red Men, has gone to visit the lodges at Redlands and Riverside in company with Judge T. Bliss, of San Francisco, Chief Executive of the state, who is making the rounds of California lodges.

Walter Beach, son of A. W. Beach, of 633 North Brand Boulevard, got home from the University of California Saturday and entertained for the week-end some student friends from San Diego who are members of his fraternity. The young men spent Sunday at the beach and the guests left for San Diego Monday.

Paul Henry Steinmeyer is very well satisfied in his old job with the Los Angeles Telephone Company, after his experience in the army where he was glad to do his duty but where camp life became quite irksome. He is still congratulating himself on getting home.

TO FAR SIBERIA

Dr. W. H. Bucher, a new comer in Glendale who is in the service of the National Red Cross, leaves today for San Francisco, where he will sail for Siberia to take charge for three years of a hospital established by the government. He has purchased the McFadden property on Broadway where his wife and baby sons—one and two years old—will reside in his absence, and which Mrs. Bucher will probably improve with a new bungalow. She is as patriotic as her husband and says if her children were older she would accompany her husband on his far journey.

RESERVATIONS CLOSED

The monthly dinner and dance of the Elks' Club, which comes off June 5th in the matter of reservations has so far exceeded the expectations of its prompters that further reservations have been closed. To those who have been disappointed about attending the dinner, however, the dance and entertainment will still be open.

"THE ROSE MAIDEN"

Monday evening, June 16th, in the Masonic Temple, a performance of the "Rose Maiden" will be given by the Pacific Mutual Glee Club under the direction of Horatio Cogswell. This organization is well known in Glendale for its excellent work and in this lovely cantata by Frederic Cowen the fine training and beautiful voices of the singers will be shown to good advantage. The soloists are: Miss Clara Seymour, operatic soprano, who will have the title role; Miss Genevra Ryersom, contralto; J. O. Westervelt, baritone; Clyde Kinsey, tenor. There will be two quartettes and a chorus of about thirty voices. Mrs. Carl Jacobsen is the accompanist. Dancing will follow the cantata and a jolly good time is promised.

The affair is being given under the auspices of the choir of St. Mark's Church and it promises to be most delightful, socially and musically. The management considers itself most fortunate in securing this performance of the "Rose Maiden."

The Glee Club is coming out entirely free of charge and making it the first donation to a certain fund which is being sponsored by St. Mark's choir. All proceeds will be devoted to the fund, full details of which will be made public shortly. Tickets will be placed on sale the latter part of this week. The committee in charge, headed by D. Ripley Jackson, includes the following: Albert Sullivan, Miss Gertrude Champlain and Miss Ina Whitaker. A full list of patrons and patronesses and other details will be announced later.

C. D. Thom and family and L. G. Sherman and wife enjoyed a trip to San Diego last Friday. They were entertained while there by Officer Regan of the Naval Flying School at North Island. The party returned Sunday night.

George H. Robinson of 136 N. Geneva, left last Thursday for Huntington Lake. He is cameraman for William Ducan of Vitigraph Co. They are doing a lumber jack story and he expects to be up there for four months. Mrs. Robinson is leaving Glendale Monday to join her husband.

A very interesting missionary program was given by six Student Volunteers of Occidental at the Tropico Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening. One talked upon India, another gave a most instructive review of the opportunities in South America, a third spoke on Korea, a country with which she was thoroughly familiar, having lived there for many years. The musical numbers they gave were also fine.

Mrs. D. W. Cunningham, of 602 N. Orange, phoned the Evening News of a narrow escape from a disastrous fire in her neighborhood this morning. A little boy started a blaze in a field of dry grass that would have swept away several houses had it not been discovered at once. Later, a young man hastening to catch a car, tossed his lighted cigar into the grass by the wayside, and started a conflagration that was put out with difficulty. Everyone should guard diligently against fires these days.

AN AERIAL SIGN POST

Oroville, Calif., will be the first city in California to have an aerial sign post. As Oroville is already a landing station on the route of the aerial forest patrol, it was deemed wise that this city should be the pioneer of this new method of directing travel. The sign will be painted on top of the Exposition building. It will be 100 feet long and about 20 feet high. The word Oroville will be painted with an arrow pointing to the location of Riley Field and the words "3 miles to landing." This sign will be easily legible to an aviator flying at the height of one mile. Work on the sign will begin immediately.

Pencil Satisfaction

Have you had experience in carrying ordinary pencils in your pocket and having them fail you at the critical moment? Have you carried silver or gold novelties in the hope of having a pencil when you needed one? Have you longed for a scientifically constructed writing instrument that would never fail you?

The Eversharp Perfect Point Pencil

is the answer to all your pencil needs. You will say the Eversharp is the most ingenious combination of parts ever assembled in so small and compact a space for writing purposes that you have ever seen. The Eversharp is not a toy or a novelty. It is a perfect writing instrument.

The Eversharp, as its name implies, never needs sharpening. When the lead wears down to the steel tip, a slight turn of the pencil's head feeds out the lead. And the body of the pencil is a magazine in which are stored twelve of the finest draughting leads for use when you need them, and they can be changed in the twinkling of an eye. The eraser of the Eversharp is perfect, and when worn out, like the lead, it can be replaced by a new one in thirty seconds.

The Eversharp would be a perfect gift for the graduate and one that he or she would prize for its usefulness for years to come.

Come in and see the Eversharp and let us explain its advantages to you.

There is a very general misapprehension as to the dangers of air travel. The frequent accidents of the early days of flying and the hazards of the war are still fresh in the public mind. The actual figures, which come as a surprise to the layman, are very reassuring. After the United States entered the war, 8,600 fliers were trained at home. The students made flights totaling 880,000 hours spent in the air, covering 60,000,000 miles. The official reports show that there was but one death through accident for every 3,200 hours spent in the air, or for every 240,000 miles flown, and even these accidents were among beginners, while the licensed pilot enjoyed an even greater degree of safety. The motorist who drives one hour a day for 3,200 days, or nearly ten years, covering 240,000 miles, probably faces as great a danger.—Review of Reviews.

GERMANY AIMS TO BATTLE FOR WORLD'S TRADE

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON. (By Mail).—German business is preparing to accept the challenge of European and American industry to a commercial battle for the world's markets, the moment peace is signed, according to information here.

Two great rival German manufacturers' associations united recently in the "Imperial Association of German Industries" to "concentrate all forces of German economic life."

Before the war South America was one of Germany's most profitable markets, and it is expected the Germans will try to win back what they have lost.

German chemical firms are planning a campaign of "peaceful penetration" to regain part of the monopoly they enjoyed previous to 1914. The chemical committee of the German demobilization office and ministry of agriculture has arranged a 1919 program for production of 70 per cent. of the normal output of fertilizers

Since the blockade stopped German exportation, America and the Allied countries of Europe have been compelled to build up giant chemical industries of their own, and these sources are now successfully supplying Germany's former customers. From the desert regions of Arizona and the mountainous rim of the Imperial Valley in California, American companies are drawing large quantities of potash and other chemicals equally as good as Germany's. Many of these deposits have been discovered and exploited entirely as a result of the withdrawal of German products needed by American industry.

German factories are feverishly hurrying back to peace basis. Krupps plants are already turning out machinery which is being sold in Holland for a price with which Dutch manufacturers cannot compete. Advices from The Hague declare the machinery is disposed of below actual cost of production.

Throughout the war German plants maintained their production of iron and steel goods at peace figures—despite the loss in imports of ores according to the Anglo-American Trade Journal.

Several new German foreign trading companies—export and import—have been organized recently.

Hamburg business men, it is reported here, believe that the loss of the German merchant marine may mean for Germany virtual loss of her world trade.

ception was held in the lobby of Casa del Rey with a fine program of music and readings by local talent.

Wednesday was given over to reports from District Presidents and in the afternoon addresses by Hon. Will C. Wood, State Supt. of Public Instruction.

Miss Harriet Eddy, State Home Demonstrator Dept. of Agriculture, U. of C., and

Miss C. R. Reilly, of Berkeley, on "Recent Progress in Industrial Welfare."

Mr. Wood gave great credit to our State President, Dr. Russell, for the valuable assistance given him during the past year.

Wednesday evening the business men of Santa Cruz united with the P.-T. A. in serving a fish dinner at Laveaga Park, which was enthusiastically shared by all attending the convention. Another delightful courtesy by the business men was an auto ride around the town and along Cliff Drive on Thursday evening.

The delegates appreciated very much the presentation of pads of note paper and pencils supplied by the San Jose Chamber of Commerce.

The Wednesday evening session was held in the Santa Cruz High School and was devoted to Round Table discussion of Extension Work and reports of Federation Presidents and discussion of uniforms for High School boys and girls, military training and fraternities in High Schools. This session was of such intense interest that it did not adjourn until 11:10 p. m.

Thursday brought in Amendments to Constitution, Resolutions and Reports of State Chairmen. The afternoon was marked by a fine address by Dr. Edward Krehbiel, Prof. of European History Stanford University, on Americanization.

Echoes of National Convention were reported by Dr. Russell, Mrs. H. N. Rowell and Mrs. C. S. Thompson.

Los Angeles Federation extended invitation for convention of 1920 and was seconded by all Federations of Los Angeles county who had delegates present.

The message of the State President closed the afternoon and the State Convention became a memory of wonderful work accomplished but with a vision of still greater work for the coming year.

Pres. Glendale Federation P.-T. A.

21 NATIONS IN CONFERENCE

(By nited Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Representatives of twenty-one South American countries met here today for the purpose of exchanging views and information with official and unofficial representatives of the United States, with a view to stimulating development of Pan-American trade.

Recalling the success of the first Pan-American Commercial Conference, held under the auspices of the Pan-American Union in February, 1911, the governing board of the union believes that much good will result from this "get together" between North and South Americans.

Governments, organizations, firms and individuals will be represented in this informal, but comprehensive exchange of views and information between commercial representatives, trade experts, business men and other interested parties.

In order to do justice to all countries concerned, and to the numerous important phases of Pan-American commerce, general and special sectional sessions will be held, beginning with the inaugural session today, and continuing for three days. Everyone at the conference will be given an opportunity to state his views and it had been hoped that President Wilson and Secretary Lansing would return to America in time to speak at the inaugural session. Many international trade experts have been invited to speak at the sessions.

BERLIN GONE MAD OVER GAMBLING

(By United Press)

BERLIN. (By Mail).—Monte Carlo was a gambler's kindergarten compared to "gambling Berlin" today. In Monte, you could get gamblers' excitement with a five franc piece; in Berlin the lowest bet is fifty marks. While there was a limit at Monte, you may put fifty thousand marks on a single card in Berlin.

If you are a stranger in Berlin just ask the chauffeur to drive you to one of the five hundred gamblers' "clubs" Berlin has today. Your looks will tell the chauffeur the class of club to which he had better take you. There are all kinds, from the low class den to the most fashionable with special rooms for ladies, dancing halls and dining rooms, where dinners, wines, liquors and coffee are served at half cost price. The visitors come from all stations of life. The film star sits beside the butcher-war-grafter; the countess beside a horsedealer; the baker's wife beside the coquette.

Except for some lotteries and raffles, at most of the clubs the play is "Baccarat." The club owners get five per cent. of the sums raised from the auctioning of "the bank," taking place every hour at least. The "card money" or fees, together with the percentage amounts to somewhat between 25,000 and 40,000 marks per night at the biggest clubs. The directors get 100,000 marks per year.

At no time in history has there been so much gambling at such high stakes. At some clubs 5,000,000 marks change hands each night. The gamblers want to have all the action out of their fortunes before either the tax collector or the Bolsheviks gets them.

But not only the wealthy are infected with the bacillus. In the streets of Berlin people may be seen to lose fifty or more marks at a single turn at "roulette." One day a soldier, having lost 500 marks, arrested the bankholder and, being attacked by the latter's friends, threw a hand grenade, killing himself and wounding several others.

The real gambling fever began during the last two years of the war and seemingly has not reached its highest point yet. During the last four weeks about two hundred new clubs have been licensed. One of the new rights the revolution has provided for every "free citizen" seems to be a gambling club of his own.

To prevent robbery of the clubs the military authorities provide the clubs with guards according to the size of them. In order to draw the customers the owners give weekly free dinners of a large number of courses and all the champagne you want to drink.
